PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The Discover Bentley program welcomes high achieving African-American, Latino, and Native American students, who are interested in pursuing a graduate degree in business, to explore the options available at Bentley University. This three day program allows prospective students to meet with faculty, students and admissions representatives to learn more about the MBA and MS programs offered at the McCallum Graduate School. Participants will have the opportunity to sit in on classes and receive information about the admission and financial aid process. The final day of the program participants will participate in the graduate school Open House which will include tours of the campus and presentations by faculty in each of the main programs offered.

“The resources Bentley provides to their business students are unbelievable. From the technological classrooms to the opportunity to become Bloomberg certified, it was a great feeling to be at a ‘real’ business school. A business school that integrates real work into the classroom, offers global opportunities, and experiential learning.”
